Dr. Claire Dietz-Polte is a Partner in Baker McKenzie's Public Law Practice and co-heads the German Energy & Infrastructure team. Claire started her career in the energy team of a leading law firm in 2011 and worked in the M&A/Energy & Infrastructure practice group of another major law firm from 2013 to 2016.

Claire advises domestic and foreign enterprises, sponsors, banks and financial investors on M&A, joint ventures, projects and related financings in the energy and infrastructure sector. She has extensive expertise and experience advising on generation assets (renewables, gas, coal, nuclear), storages (battery, gas, oil) as well as networks (fibre, transmission and distribution).

Claire also advises on all stages of project development (particularly for renewable energy facilities, battery storage and data centers) from early-stage structuring to financing, and share or asset deal transactions to (Corporate) PPAs. Furthermore, Claire focuses on the implementation of projects and services agreements in the future mobility sector (e-mobility, micro-mobility). She is part of the Firm's Future Mobility Group. Claire's practice also covers commercial advice (e.g. energy and media supply agreements, infrastructure usage agreements) and regulatory advice (e.g. unbundling, third party access regimes, EEG surcharge reduction) in the energy & infrastructure sector.
