

James Copping

James Copping is a Senior Administrator in the Automotive and Mobility Industries Unit of the European Commission's Directorate-General for Internal Market, Industry, Entrepreneurship and SMEs. His primary responsibility is co-ordinating and developing the Commission's policy on electro-mobility and, in particular, on supporting the work of the European Battery Alliance. This has included contributing to the drafting of the Commission's Strategic Action Plan for Batteries and to the recent Sustainable and Smart Mobility Strategy. Within these responsibilities, he is working on a number of EU skill-related projects. He joined the European Commission in 2001 and has worked in different units within the Directorate-General and joined the Automotive and Mobility Industries Unit in 2017.