Taiwan Power Company (TPC) was established in 1946 as a state-owned electric utility. The company's mission is to provide a stable power supply in an environmentally friendly manner and at a reasonable cost. By achieving these goals, the company has created essential conditions for the development of enterprises and the maintenance of high living standards in Taiwan.

Following recent changes to Taiwan's Electricity Act, TPC will continue to assume greater responsibilities of developing green energy, reducing carbon emissions, facilitating energy saving and developing an overall business strategy for resource allocation, technology development and enterprise transformation. These roles will ensure the company can address numerous challenges, such as energy transformation and power market evolution, while meeting power demand, maintaining operating efficiency and energy supply. TPC seeks to lead Taiwan into a new energy era while evolving into a world-class power group.
